

Will you tell your story?

By telling us a little about yourself, you can help us raise awareness about brain tumours amongst millions of people. Here's how.

Every day, journalists ask us for case studies to fill their newspapers, magazines, radio and TV channels. Many are targeted at specific audiences or events: "We need a man, aged 35-45, diagnosed just before Christmas, with a young family and a blue-collar job."

Thanks to volunteers just like you, we're often able to provide just the story. The impact of brain tumours and our work to support patients, fund research and raise awareness makes the headlines.

If you are happy to complete this form and return it to us at the address below, we'll put your details into our database of case studies. If a request that fits your profile comes up, we'll give you a call.

First, we'll contact you first to make sure you are happy to be interviewed. Then, if the journalist is interested in your story, we'll provide you with advice and support so that the interview is a rewarding experience. There's no obligation at any time.

Thank you for helping. We look forward to working with you in the future.

1. About you

Title: Mr / Mrs / Miss / Ms / Other
First name:	Last name:
Address:
Postcode:
Daytime telephone number:
Mobile telephone number:
Email:
Date of birth:
Are you: <input type="checkbox"/> a patient or <input type="checkbox"/> a patient's partner or <input type="checkbox"/> spouse or <input type="checkbox"/> involved with the patient in another way (please describe):
If you are not the patient, what is the patient's full name and date of birth?
What tumour has been diagnosed (don't worry about the spelling!):
When was the tumour diagnosed?
What symptoms led to the discovery of the tumour?
Please tell us a little about your / the patient's cancer journey, including treatments and outcomes.

2. The impact of the tumour diagnosis on you or (if applicable) the patient and their family

Please tell us a little about what you / the patient were doing before diagnosis (e.g. job, looking after a family, hobbies or interests):

Please tell us a little about what impact the diagnosis has had on you or, if applicable, the patient and their family:

Has the diagnosis affected specific plans, such as getting married, a new job, starting university or starting a family?

3. Your privacy

I am happy for Brain Tumour UK to contact me about media case studies. I can end this commitment at any time simply by informing Brain Tumour UK:

Signed:

Date:

We will not pass your details to other organisations, but we may want to send you further information about our vital work. If you would rather not receive updates from us, please tick this box:

Please return to: Claire Miller, Brain Tumour UK, Tower House, Latimer Park, Chesham, Bucks HP5 1TU